CANCER

Two months ago my attention was called to the case of a woman afflicted with a cancer on her shoulder at least 5 inches in circumference, ungry, painful and giving the patient no rest day or night for 6 months. I obtained a supply of Swift's Specific for her. She has taken 5 bottles, and the ulcer is entirely healed up, only a very small scab remaining, and her health is better than for 5 years past; seems to be perfectly cured.

BEV. JESSE H. CAMPRELLI, Columbus, Ga.

I have seen remarkable results from the use of swift's Specific on a cancer. A young man near here has been afficed a years with the most autry-looking. The first bottle made a wonderful change, and after five bottles were taken, he is nearly of aud after five bottles were taken, he is nearly of quite well. It is truly wonderful nearly or quite well. It is rull wonderful.

THE LASKER INCIDENT Creates a Breeze in the Reichstag in Spite of Bismarck and His Party. In the Reichstag yesterday, after the president had been re-elected, that functionary announced the death of Herr Lasker and of other members who had died during the recess. The Deputies remained stand ing, as a mark of respect, while this an nouncement was being made.

nouncement was being made.

Herr Rickert, an independent, speaking, as he explained, on the order of the day, expressed thanks in the name of Herr Lasker's friends for the numerous tokens of sympathy which had been received. He was particularly grateful to the American Congress for the action of the House of Representatives.

The president informed Herr Rickert that he was departing from the order of the day.

that he was departing from the order of the day.

Herr Dr. Haenel, progressist, admitted that Herr Richert had passed outside the order of the day, but pointed out that this only showed a defect in the usages of the House. He referred to Herr Richert's praise of the American Congress, whereupon the president reminded him that he, too, was departing from the order of the day; but he continued to speak. He said that he had perhaps broken the rules, but he considered that he was justified, and pleaded extenuating circumstances. "When a body like Congress," he said, "adopts flattering resolutions, we should pay as much regard to them as is consonant with parliamentary usages."

usages."

Baron Von Maltzahn contended that the rules of the House offered no ground for a statement like Herr Rickert's, or for any reference to the resolution of a foreign par-statement like Herr Rickerts, or for any reference to the resolution of a foreign parliament which had not been officially communicated to the Reichstag.

In the course of further remarks Herr Rickert referred to a protest made by Herr Hammerstein against the course pursued by the American Congress, and said that the party he represented cared as little for that protest as they did for the unjustifiable interference of Prince Bismarck. This bold declaration was followed by a great uproar.

As soon as order was restored Herr von Botticher, Imperial Secretary of the Interior and Representative of the Chancellor, said that he knew absolutely nothing of any interference on the part of Prince Bismarck. If the latter was requested to inform the Reichstag of resolutions adopted by the American Cougress, and did what he deemed right in the matter, his action was not subject to criticism. He concluded by protesting against any criticism of

Dr. Maller, progressist, began a speech by directing attention to a banner hanging in the hall, which had been presented to the Reichstag by German-Americans, but he and the discussion was closed.

NOT THE BOSS POKER PLAYERS. There May be Army Poker Clubs, But Sheridan and McKeever Are Not in Them,

What do the Army officers in the Department think of the articles going the rounds of the press about the poker clubs in military circles in Washington?" queried a reporter of one of the gallant warriors who serves his country on special duty at the War Department.

"Well," replied the hero, "the officers don't mind them much, because they are so inac-curate that, to anybody who knows any-thing about it, the mistakes tend to east a doubt over the whole story. Now, there are probably such clubs as are described, or may be such, at least, but the enterprising may be such, at least, but the enterprising scribe who started the story that General McKeever was the head of one and that Colonel Michael Sheridan was the leading spirit and most accomplished player of another rather spoiled the effect of his protest against the wicked ways of the officers in the eyes of any judge who is personally acquainted with the fact, as I am, that General McKeever never held a poker-hand in his life, don't know anything about it except what he has learned by reading the newspaper accounts of the club, of which he is alleged to be the head, and that Colonel Sheridan has not shuffled the pasteboards since his to be the head, and that Colonel Sheridan has not shuffled the pasteboards since his return from the Yellowstone."

"You mean to dony that there are any poker-ciubs in Washington army circles?"
"No, I do not; but I do mean to say that the scribes who picked out McKeever and Sheriden as the boss poker-players of the National Capital are responsible for the most unfounded romance."

EXTRA HOURS, BUT NO EXTRA PAY. A Complaint of a Manifest Injustice.

A Complaint of a Manifest Injustice. The Secretary of the Treasury has ordered the clerks in the First Comptroller's Office, at the instance, it is said, of Comptroller Lawrence, to work two additional hours each day. The reason for this is, while the force in this office is competent, it is inadequate to the proper performance of the work necessary to be done, and each division is very much behind. Congress has been asked for additional force each year, and no attention whatever has been paid to the recommendation. The boys on the Hill are very careful, however, to see to it that the force in the Capitol does not become inadequate. It is further said that these already overworked clerks are to receive no extra pay for these extra hours. This is unqualifiedly unjust. The Secretary of the Interior has requested the clerks in the Land Office to give the Government the benefit of three additional hours of their time, but he has generously asked Congress to pay them. The attention of Secretary Folger is directed to this matter, and The Certic hopes that he will give these clerks some inspiration to do this extra work, and recommend that they be paid, inasmuch as the arrearage of the work is no fault of their own. And, as Congress has, in its fallure to provide extra force in this office, and thus made essential the imposing of the extra hours and the Government reaps the benefit of this labor, it should pay them without a word. ment reaps the benefit of this labor, it should pay them without a word.

Perhaps Too Much Is Required. Perhaps Too Much Is Required.
Some trouble is encountered by Captain Schley in selecting a commander for the stramer Alert on the Greeley Relief Expedition. His views as to the requirements, moral, mental and physical, for the commander are such as to leave but a small number of officers from whom to select, and out of this list one was selected, and proved to have weak eyes, another is reported to have been rejected on account of color-blindness, a third because of chronic rheumatism and a fourth because he did not want to go. The commander has not yet been finally determined upon.

The beauty of Mr. Bronson Howard's new play, which was acted last night at the Madson Square Theatre, lies at once in its subject. The artistic wholeness of the play is surprising and gratifying. It is a play which tolls what we understand; which has a genuine purpose, though not a ditactic heaviness, and ing and gralifying. It is a play which tolis what we understand; which has a genuine purpose, though not a didactic heaviness, and which goes to its mark simply, directly and effectively. Mr. Howard's new play strikes vigorously at one of the most lagrant weaknesses of our American social life. There is nothing so common, nothing more sadly productive of misery and misunderstanding, than the inclination of American husbands to neglect their wives and to put their hearts into gold, cotion or stock. Among us love is merely a springiline; business makes up the other seasons. Mr. Howard has touched, therefore, the real wound, and he has touched, therefore, the real wound, and he has touched it with a sympathetic power which is worthy of our hearty admiration and respect.

There is not an extravagant point, nor a forced or improbable situation of any sort in "Young Mrs. Winthrop." The scenes of the drama are honesity taken from life. The action is a natural self-movement. The characters belong essentially to the story. The eartier drama might happen in any home. This is, in the sense that we have indicated on mady from life is to reach into reality, and from this point of view "Young Mrs. Winthrop" is worth a score of blays like "The Banker's Daughter,"—New York Times.

A Very Unworthy Provision.

It is understood that the amendment placed on the Naval Appropriation bill Thursday in the House preventing army officers ranking above major, and naval officers above the grade of Commodore, who are on the retired let, from drawing pay from the Government for services performed in any civil position, was intended to prevent General M. C. Meigs from drawing pay as supervising architect of the new Pension Office building. General Meigs now draws pay on the retired list of the Army with the rank of Major-General. He has also claimed a salary of $10 per day for his services in supervising the construction of the new Fension Office building. He drew both pays for some time, and just now his second pay as architect in being held up by the Treasury Department awaiting a decision by the Attorney-General. A Very Unworthy Provision.
